

ISO 31030 Travel Risk Management Guidance for Organisations Course

The new ISO Standard launches in 2021, providing the international benchmark for how to best keep travellers safe.

This online introduction course will help you understand the Standard and what it means for you and your organisation. We'll share about emerging risks for travellers and how to help them make good decisions on the road, as well as the legal implications of ISO 31030 and how to create a compliant travel risk programme for your organization.

DURATION

1 Day

TARGETED ATTENDEES

Travel
Managers /
Buyers, Risk
Managers,
Security, TMCs,
Travel
Suppliers

ENROLMENT REQUIREMENTS

Our course is ideally suited for all levels of experience who will have a role to play in successfully adopting the new ISO 31030 Standard. The ability to understand course content that is delivered in English is essential.

OUTLINE COURSE SYLLABUS

MODULE 1 - The Strategic Context - Why you need a TRM programme and system	The legal context
	Background to the Standard
	Responsibilities and accountabilities under the Standard
	Aligning the Standard and the organisation
MODULE 2 - The Traveller and the Travel	Intelligence, information, data and necessity
	Elements and end to end considerations (journeys, accommodation, “off-duty”)
	The Traveller: Professional and personal considerations
	Communications
	Incident contingency support arrangements
MODULE 3 - Making Good Risk Decisions	The Travel Risk Assessment Model
	Record keeping and documentation
	Risk decision exercises
MODULE 4 - Online Interac- tive Synthesis: Bring it all together	Question and answer session with subject matter experts
	Checking understanding
	De-briefing the Module 3 exercises

OTHER SUPPORT

Visit our website at www.gsaccreditation.com to see the ‘GSA ISO 31030 Travel Risk Management Guidance for Organisations’ training course.

Around the world, the safety, security and health of travellers has never been more uncertain. That’s why the new ISO 31030 Travel Risk Management standard has been established. And why GSA exists.

Underpinned by the highest level of global security and safety expertise, GSA is more than an accreditation business. Working to ISO 31030 standards, we provide services and support that allow businesses to mitigate travel risks and more effectively deliver their duty of care. We are creating the benchmarks the world needs, to make travel safer for everyone.

For further information please go to <https://www.gsaccreditation.com/contact-us/>