

ISO 31030 TRAINING PROGRAMMES

- Travel Risk Management Bootcamp: Understanding and Implementing ISO 31030
- Foundational Course in ISO 31030: Travel Risk Management

HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW ABOUT ISO 31030?

ISO 31030 has set an international benchmark for travel risk management and offers guidelines around what is required of organisations when building travel risk management policies to demonstrate duty of care to travelling employees. Travel Management Companies (TMCs) are already being asked to provide guidance on ISO 31030 and this is likely to increase in the future.

Understanding and implementing the ISO 31030 guidelines helps organisations manage legal and financial risks should complications arise during their employees' travel. It is therefore crucial that TMCs recognise how to implement the standard into their organisation's policies, as well as being able to advise corporate clients on best practice.

WHAT ARE THE BENEFITS OF TRAINING FROM GLOBAL SECURE ACCREDITATION?

- We provide engaging training programmes to help you fully understand and ensure compliance to the new ISO 31030 standard.
- You will learn how to analyse risk and ensure consistent standards of security are applied worldwide.
- We can help you compare your current policies and processes with the new global standard and mitigate risk.
- Our training helps you publicly demonstrate duty of care to your travelling employees, as well as clients.

WHICH TRAINING PROGRAMME DO I NEED?

We have partnered with two training experts to help you better understand ISO 31030 and build this knowledge into your own travel risk management policies.

FOUNDATIONAL COURSE IN TRAVEL RISK MANAGEMENT

Built in collaboration with Travilearn, this online, self-paced learning module will equip you with a foundational base of knowledge of ISO 31030 and insights on how to implement the guidance into your travel risk management policies.

The course, which takes approximately one hour to complete, will guide you through the topics included in the new standard.

Outcomes:

- Understand the scope of the new ISO 31030 standard
- Obtain an introduction on how it applies to different travel programmes
- Provide guidance on next steps to become compliant

TESTIMONIALS

“Our current travel risk program is secure and effective through the pandemic and even before the pandemic, but with the new ISO 31030 that was released the GBTA Travel Risk Management Bootcamp allowed me to gain knowledge of areas that we may be weaker on and need to strengthen. The course was very interactive and presented information that was immediately actionable. The course gave me the tools to develop a project plan to ensure my company is doing everything we can for travel risk management.”

“The Travel Risk Management Bootcamp is well organized, presented in an appealing and entertaining way. The step-by-step approach and interactive “translation” from content to action helps to better understand potential dangers, impact and consequences. Notwithstanding 45+ years in tourism and the airline industry, the bootcamp offered me valuable new insights.”

WHY CHOOSE GSA?

Our training enables you to publicly demonstrate commitment to the most stringent levels of duty of care for travelling employees and to ensure your policies meet and exceed ISO 31030.

Our senior management team is made up of former police officers and travel management experts at the most senior level. We helped develop ISO 31030 and create the UK guidance on the standard issued by BSI. We have decades of experience in recognising the risks around hotels and serviced accommodation and helping organisations with travelling employees to address these proactively.
